Old Man Cremated By His Wife and Nephew.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 29.-Word has just been received here of an atrocious murder recently committed on Porter's creek, near El Campo, Tex. The murdered man was Otto Harmes, an old German farmer who, it is claimed, was murdered by his wife and Julius Harmes, his nephew. The information comes that Julius became infatuated with Mrs. Harmes and they decided to put the old farmer out of the way. It is said Julius hit him on the head with an axe one might when he was sleeping, and, assisted by Mrs. Harmes dragged the body to a cornfield, piled brush over it and started a fire. The story further says that Julius and Mrs. Harmes returned the next morning to death. A large squill is among the death. German farmer who, it is claimed, was story furines says that Junius and Mrs. Harmes returned the next morning to find the fire had gone out and Harmes was alive, but unconscious, and they then piled cornstalks over him and burned him to a crisp, after which they buried his remains. classes opposed him and consulted the dowager empress as to means for nullifying these reforms.

The current story is that the immediate cause of the emperor's downfall was that he appeared one day in European clothes. This offense, it toppears, was aggravated by the arrival in China of the Marquis Ito, the Japanese statesman, which alarmed the palace officials, as fereshadowing Japanese influence in the empire's councils. Thereupon the dowager empress acted with wonderful promptness and deposed her nephew before the Pekin people were aware she had left the summer palace. Kang Yuwel, foreseeing trouble, fled two days before the crisis. His followers were arrested today.

Private Gannon played in hard luck Saturday. About noon he mounted one of our prize burros and started out foraging, expecting to return for supper. He failed to show up on time and away into the night, we who awaited his reaxing, expecting to return for supper. He falled to show up on time and away into the night we who awaited his return began to grow uneasy. Lieutenant Kimball, Corporal Weatherby and our guide started out in search of him, but soon gave up the Job as fruitless. The uncertainty as to whether our man had been hurt or was only lost caused a very unpleasant creepy feeling that was not relieved by our guide's telling us that two years ago one of a surveying party became separated from his comrades in this same vicinity, wandered without food for four days and went mad before he was found. Next morning, Sunday, Gamen was still missing and Lieutenant Kimball, Corporal Weatherby, Guide Leonard and I went out on our horses looking for him. We separated and seoured the mountains till, noon, when by previous arrangement we returned to camp and found Gamnon there. He had become lost and had wandered about in the mountains with his burro all night, having no matches to light a camp fire.
